

FURNITURE DESIGN INTERN AT ARCHIVAL STUDIES

Archival Studies is looking for a new Furniture Design Intern for the Spring with a focus on product development and prototyping. We are seeking an open and communicative individual who is captivated by the world of furniture design, woodworking and future-oriented solutions. Are you ready to contribute your creative ideas to a cutting-edge design practice?

Your responsibilities will encompass a wide range of tasks, including:

- Assist in the conceptualization of new furniture for ongoing spatial projects.
- Participating in the prototyping and fabrication process.
- Assisting in the testing and refinement of design ideas.
- Contributing to the creation of engaging visual materials for presentations.

Throughout your internship, you will gain invaluable experience in the following areas:

- Furniture design and product development.
- Hands-on prototyping and fabrication techniques.
- Collaboration within a dynamic and innovative design team.

We are seeking candidates who possess the following qualifications and skills:

- Educational background or practical experience in furniture design.
- Proficiency in relevant design software and tools such as Rhino and Adobe Suite.
- Strong attention to detail and a passion for hands-on work.
- Ability to contribute creatively within a collaborative team environment.
- Experience with woodworking, materials, and fabrication processes.

Candidates with the following additional qualifications will stand out:

- Familiarity with 3D modeling and rendering software.
- A keen eye for aesthetic detail and innovative design solutions.
- Experience with Enscape and Inventor is a plus.

We offer a dynamic work environment within our international and interdisciplinary team of architects, designers, and joiners. If you are a motivated individual with the described background, we would love to hear from you!

To apply, please send your resume, portfolio and cover letter, preferably in English, to job@archivalstudies.net
